

Module 10 Exam

Question 1

2.5 / 2.5 pts

Multiple Choice:

Each of the following are true of gout except:

Uric acid dissolves readily in synovial fluid

Typically occurs at the first metatarsophalangeal joint

Anyone can get gout

Uric acid is a byproduct of purine metabolism

Question 2

2.5 / 2.5 pts

Multiple Choice:

Which of the following would a patient likely report if you suspect they have OA?

Pain in their MCP joint

Stiffness in the morning that resolves in less than 30 minutes

Pain that would be described as "acute"

They feel "looser" after they move around

Question 3

2.5 / 2.5 pts

Which of the following are true regarding syndesmoses? (mark all that apply)

They allow limited movement between them

They allow no movement between them

They allow a small degree of movement between them

They are separated by a fibrous disc

They are joined by dense connective tissue

Question 4

2.5 / 2.5 pts

Blood circulates through bone by what means? (mark all that apply)

Via the central Haversian and Volkmann canals

An anastomosis between perforating and nutrient arteries

Diffusion through the endosteal surface of the bone and the canaliculi

Question 5

0 / 2.5 pts

Multiple Choice:

Which of the following drugs is most commonly prescribed to treat osteoporosis?

Raloxifene

Correct Answer

Alendronate

Calcitonin

Question 6

2.5 / 2.5 pts

Multiple Choice:

Which of the following cells are stimulated by PTH?

Osteocytes

Osteoclasts

Osteoblasts

Osteoprogenitor cells

Question 7

2.5 / 2.5 pts

Multiple Choice:

Which of the following is false regarding OA?

It is characterized by the gradual deterioration of weight bearing joints

Males over the age of 55 have the highest incidence of OA

Age, gender, history of trauma, and weight all contribute to the risk of developing OA

Males have a higher incidence of developing OA at younger ages

Question 8

2.5 / 2.5 pts

Multiple Choice:

A patient has low serum calcium levels. Which of the following is true given this scenario?