148. Identify two possible threats that occur when a CPA and his or her supervisor have a difference of opinion related to the application of accounting principles, auditing standards, or other relevant professional standards?

A. Self-interest

B. Advocacy

C. Familiarity

D. Self-review

Answer: A, C, Taxonomy: Knowledge, Difficulty: Medium, AICPA PC: Decision Making, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.4, Solution: Self-interest, familiarity, and undue influence threats may exist when a CPA and his or her supervisor have a difference of opinion related to the application of accounting principles, auditing standards, or other relevant professional standards.

Question Type: Drop down

149. Match each of the threats below with the appropriate description.

A. Undue influence threat

||The threat that a CPA will subordinate his or her judgment to an individual associated with the client or a relevant third party.

B. Self-interest threat

||The threat that a CPA could benefit from an interest in, or relationship with, a client or persons associated with a client.

C. Management participation threat

||The threat that a CPA will take on the role of client leadership or assume such responsibilities.

D. Adverse interest threat

||The threat that a CPA will not act with objectivity because the CPA's interests are opposed to client interests.

Answer: 0, Taxonomy: Application, Difficulty: Easy, AICPA PC: Decision Making, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.3, Solution: Undue influence threat—the threat that a CPA will subordinate his or her judgment to an individual associated with the client or a relevant third party.

Self-interest threat—the threat that a CPA could benefit from an interest in, or relationship with, a client or persons associated with a client.

Management participation threat—the threat that a CPA will take on the role of client leadership or assume such responsibilities.

Adverse interest threat—the threat that a CPA will not act with objectivity because the CPA's interests are opposed to client interests.

150. Match the following entities with the appropriate categories.

A. covered member

||member of the engagement team

B. executor of an estate

||key management position

C. nondependent children

||close relative

D. dependent member

||immediate family member

Answer: 0, Taxonomy: Knowledge, Difficulty: Easy, AICPA PC: Decision Making, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.5, Solution: A covered member may be a member of the engagement team. An executor of an estate holds a key management position. Nondependent children of a covered member are their close relatives. Dependent members of a covered member are their immediate family members.

Question Type: Short Answer

151. Why do auditors try to achieve independence in appearance?

A. Auditors try to achieve independence in appearance in order to maintain public confidence in the profession.

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Knowledge, Difficulty: Easy, AICPA FC: Technology and Tools, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.1

152. Can a CPA who has never audited a commercial bank, audit the bank?

A. The CPA may accept the engagement to audit the commercial bank after attaining a suitable level of understanding of the transactions and accounting practices unique to commercial banking.

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Knowledge, Difficulty: Easy, AICPA PC: Decision Making, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.2

153. What is the conceptual difference between attestation standards and generally accepted auditing standards?

A. Attestation standards provide a framework for the attest function beyond historical financial statements.

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Knowledge, Difficulty: Medium, AICPA FC: Reporting, AACSB: Analytic, Learning Objective: LO2.3

154. Darla Barker, CPA owns a small tax practice located in Ann Arbor, MI. Darla's family friend, Stephen Grey, owns a small security firm in Livonia, MI. Stephen's banker has decided that Stephen's company needs to submit audited financial statements in order to maintain Stephen's line of credit with the bank. Stephen emails Darla asking if she would be interested in performing the audit of his company. Stephen is on a tight deadline from the bank and would like the audited statements within 6 weeks. Darla's tax practice has never performed an audit for any client previously. Draft an email response from Darla to Stephen, referencing the appropriate section of the AICPA Code of Professional Conduct.

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Synthesis, Difficulty: Hard, AICPA BB: Governance Perspective, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.6,

Solution: Students will submit different content here but the key points of their email responses should be to (1) thank Stephen for considering our firm, (2) respectfully and politely decline the engagement, (3) explain why the engagement must be declined – we simply do not have the experience and knowledge necessary to complete the engagement within the required time frame, and (4) suggest another CPA who may be able to help Stephen.

The email response should reference the general standards: “A member shall comply with the following standards and with any interpretations thereof by bodies designated by Council:

1. Professional Competence. Undertake only those professional services that the member or the member's firm can reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence.
2. Due Professional Care. Exercise due professional care in the performance of professional services.
3. Planning and Supervision. Adequately plan and supervise the performance of professional services.
4. Sufficient Relevant Data. Obtain sufficient relevant data to afford a reasonable basis for conclusions or recommendations in relation to any professional services performed.”

155. STAR, CPA is auditing a not-for profit. Provide an example of due professional care with for this audit.

A. Several responses would be acceptable. For example, consultation with an independent appraiser regarding the valuation of fine art for a not-for-profit museum would evidence proper due care.

156. You have been hired to audit JarCakes, Inc., a small privately held local bakery that specializes in jarred cupcakes. As the bakery is small, they have requested that you do several other tasks for them. The bakery owner, Jared Sampson, is frequently out of town at conventions. As such, Jared has requested that you sign checks for him in emergency situations when he is out of town and payments must be made. In addition, when he is away, he has requested that the payroll clerk provide you with approved timecards to use in generating payroll checks. Jared's wife, Rita, is the accountant for JarCakes. She frequently attends conventions with her husband. Accordingly, Jared has also asked if it would be possible for you to post journal entries in the accounting. Rita would send you all information for any journal entries that are required, including the appropriate account classification. Additionally, Jared would like a new accounting information system installed. He considers you the expert, so he would like you to take full ownership of that project. As JarCakes is small and he has no IT staff, Jared would also like you to supervise his personnel in the daily operation of the new accounting information system. Finally, as Jared's expertise is in baking, and not in business, he would like you to serve in an investment advisory role for him, by recommending the allocation of funds that he should invest in various asset classes. Prepare a response to Jared, outlining which of his requests are allowed non-attest services and which of his requests are not allowed under the Independence rules.

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Application, Difficulty: Hard, AICPA PC: Decision Making, AACSB: Analytic, Learning Objective: LO2.5,

Solution: A CPA may not accept responsibility to authorize payment of client funds, or accept responsibility to sign or cosign client checks, even if only in emergency situations. When assisting a small business client with payroll using payroll time records provided and approved by the client, the CPA can generate unsigned checks or process the client's payroll. In an accounting service engagement for a nonpublic client, a CPA may record transactions for which management has determined or approved the appropriate account classification or post coded transactions to a client's general ledger. In an IT engagement, a CPA may design, install, or integrate a client's information system, provided the client makes all management decisions. However, a CPA may not supervise client personnel in the daily operation of a client's information system. In an investment advisory engagement with an attest and tax client, a CPA can recommend the allocation of funds that a client should invest in various asset classes, depending upon the client's desired rate of return, risk tolerance, and so on.

157. Patrick Bronson is the owner of a local CPA firm. His client, J.R.'s Convenience Store, is a small local business that records its transactions on a cash basis. Each year, Patrick's firm prepares financial statements for J.R.'s on a cash basis. Is this a violation of the accounting principles rule? How should the CPA treat the preparation of cash basis financial statements?

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Synthesis, Difficulty: Hard, AICPA BB: Governance Perspective, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.7,

Solution: No. It is appropriate and compliant that many small businesses use the cash basis. Financial statements prepared using a cash basis would be considered financial reporting frameworks other than generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP). In this situation, the client's financial statements, and the CPA's report thereon, should not purport that the financial statements are in accordance with GAAP, and the financial statements and the CPA's report should clarify the financial reporting framework used.

158. You are starting up a small CPA firm in your town. Your friend, Bruce, is an advisor at the local investment services firm. Bruce tells you this could be a great opportunity for both of you. Bruce suggests that you each pay each other a $100 referral fee for each client that you successfully refer to the other. Compose an answer to Bruce, in accordance with the AICPA Code of Professional Conduct.

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Synthesis, Difficulty: Hard, AICPA BB: Governance Perspective, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.7,

Solution: Students will submit different content here but the key points of their answer to Bruce should be to (1) decline the offer and (2) explain that such an arrangement is not allowed per the AICPA Code of Professional Conduct. In general, entering into a referral fee associated with an attest client impairs independence due to the advocacy threat associated with these types of fees. It is appropriate for CPAs to accept a referral fee, with respect to non-attest clients. However, these fee arrangements are prohibited for attest clients as they impair independence.

159. Miller, CPAs is performing an audit of the financial statements of Big Craft Brewery. Pete Henderson, the CEO of Big Craft Brewery has requested that Miller CPAs omit the financial statement disclosures for segment reporting, as that is confidential information that could harm his competitive advantage, if made public. Draft an email from Miller CPAs to Pete Henderson in response to his request.

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Synthesis, Difficulty: Hard, AICPA BB: Governance Perspective, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.7,

Solution: Students will submit different content here but the key elements in their email to Pete should be that omitting a required disclosure would be unacceptable. Then, explain that the rule on confidential client information should not be construed as relieving a CPA of his or her professional obligation to comply with accounting principles. Hence, a client cannot claim that information should not be disclosed in financial statements due to client confidentiality if the information is required by GAAP.

160. Compare and contrast auditor liability under contract law vs. tort law.

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Evaluation, Difficulty: Hard, AICPA BB: Governance Perspective, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.8,

Solution: An auditor may be liable to a client for breach of contract when the audit firm:

- Issues a standard audit report when he or she has not made an audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards (GAAS).
- Does not deliver the audit report by the agreed-upon date.
- Violates the client's confidential relationship.

A CPA may also be liable to a client under tort law. A tort is a wrongful act that injures another person's property, body, or reputation. A tort action may be based on any one of the following causes:

- Ordinary negligence - Failure to exercise the degree of care a person of ordinary prudence (a reasonable person) would exercise under the same circumstances.
- Gross negligence - Failure to use even slight care in the circumstances.
- Fraud -. Intentional deception, such as misrepresentation, concealment, or nondisclosure of a material fact, that results in injury to another. In some cases a distinction has been made between fraud and constructive fraud. Constructive fraud may be inferred from gross negligence or reckless disregard for the truth.

161. Briefly compare the differences between ordinary negligence, gross negligence, and fraud.

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Evaluation, Difficulty: Hard, AICPA BB: Governance Perspective, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.8,

Solution:

- Ordinary negligence - Failure to exercise the degree of care a person of ordinary prudence (a reasonable person) would exercise under the same circumstances.
- Gross negligence - Failure to use even slight care in the circumstances.
- Fraud -. Intentional deception, such as misrepresentation, concealment, or nondisclosure of a material fact, that results in injury to another. In some cases a distinction has been made between fraud and constructive fraud. Constructive fraud may be inferred from gross negligence or reckless disregard for the truth.

162. Evaluate the following statement:

Maria Boynton is the plaintiff in a case against Sutherby & Alton, CPAs, arguing that she suffered a loss by relying on the financial statements of Big Box, Inc., which were audited by Sutherby & Alton, CPAs. Under the Securities Act of 1933, Marcia must prove that the auditors were negligent or fraudulent in certifying the financial statements involved.

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Evaluation, Difficulty: Hard, AICPA BB: Governance Perspective, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.9,

Solution: According to the Securities Act of 1933, the plaintiff (e.g., investors):

- May be any person acquiring securities described in the registration statement, whether or not he or she is a client of the auditor.
- Must base the claim on an alleged materially false or misleading financial statement contained in the registration statement.
- Does not have to prove reliance on the false or misleading statement or that the loss suffered was the proximate result of the statement if purchase was made before the issuance of an income statement covering a period of at least 12 months following the effective date of the registration statement.
- Does not have to prove that the auditors were negligent or fraudulent in certifying the financial statements involved.

163. The Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 made it unlawful to perform audit services for a public company and also perform the certain nonattest services for audit clients. List three of the prohibited services and come up with an example of why it may be inappropriate for an auditor to perform both an audit and that particular service.

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Evaluation, Difficulty: Medium, AICPA BB: Governance Perspective, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.9,

Solution: Specific student answers will vary but should address the ethical implications and threats to independence, conflicts of interest, etc. SOX makes it “unlawful” to perform audit services for a public company and also perform the following nonattest services for audit clients:

- Bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the audit client
- Financial information systems design and implementation
- Appraisal or valuation services, fairness opinions, or contribution-in-kind reports
- Actuarial services

- Internal audit outsourcing services
- Management functions or human resources
- Broker or dealer, investment adviser, or investment banking services
- Legal services and expert services unrelated to the audit
- Any other service that the PCAOB determines, by regulation, is impermissible

164. Tim O'Neal, CEO of a public company, explains to you, his auditor, that he does not believe he is responsible for the fair presentation of his company's financial statements. After all, isn't that what he hired you for? Draft a response to Mr. O'Neal.

Answer: N/A, Taxonomy: Synthesis, Difficulty: Hard, AICPA BB: Governance Perspective, AACSB: Ethics, Learning Objective: LO2.9,

Solution: Specific student answers will vary but should address that management is responsible for the fair presentation of the financial statements and that the auditor is responsible for following GAAS and issuing an opinion on the fair presentation of the financial statements. Section 302 requires a public company's CEO and CFO to prepare a statement to accompany the audit report to certify the "appropriateness of the financial statements and disclosures contained in the periodic report, and that those financial statements and disclosures fairly present, in all material respects, the operations and financial condition of the issuer." It also creates a liability for the CEO and CFO who knowingly and intentionally make false certifications.
